OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

Inundation—Roebuck on Russell—Mazzini—Denmark—Complications—Maximilian in London—The Prince's Toast—Sensation News.

LONDON, Tuesday, March 15, 1864.

No country is free from great and terrible calamities. Now it is an earthquake, now a conflagration, now an inundation. England has just been visited with a sudden and awful calamity of the latter kind. A few miles above Sheffield, a small river, a branch of the Don, had been dammed like the Croton, to form a reservoir for the supply of the town. The lake, formed by what was proved an insufficient embankment, was nearly a hundred acres in extent, and at midnight on Friday night, this whole body of water swept down the valley, carrying away scores of dwellings and drowning some three hundred persons, who were asleep in their beds. The destruction of property all the way to Doncaster is roughly estimated at half a million of pounds sterling. The following is a graphic description from a Sheffield paper of the scene when the flood reached that town, some six miles below the embankment.

"Persons who were out in the streets when the flood broke out, say there was a long, loud, terrible roar upon the stillness of the night, which increased in its intensity; and as they stood listening, perplexed and wonder-stricken, there came sounding above the roar a sudden hissing noise, as of waters dashing on a rock, and this was quickly followed by piercing shrieks, first distant, then increasing, until up the streets in every direction, away from the flow of the river, there ran hundreds and hundreds of persons in their night-dresses, some dragging little children by the hand, others, half-dressed, tripping and falling; and from many the same terrible exclamation came, and nothing more: 'Oh, God! the flood! the flood!' Many of the poor, naked and destitute creatures were taken into the police-office, where, round a great fire, they lay or stood, talking of their losses, or mourning for their dead, until morning broke, when they sallied forth in the hope of saving some remnant of their goods, or hoping against hope to meet the one they had mourned as dead."

The Government immediately sent an engineer to report upon the cause of the calamity, and there will be no want of pecuniary aid. Mr. HADFIELD, one of the Members of Parliament for the town, sent a check for £500 as soon as he heard the news. The damages which will fall upon the Company will take its entire capital. The English boast that if slow they are solid, careful and sure, but they have explosions in mines, railway accidents, fires, shipwrecks, falling of buildings, and similar calamities, as well as other people. In fact, there is probably greater loss of life from such causes in England, in proportion to the population, than in any country in Europe.

As I expected, there was a nice bit of a scrimmage in the House of Commons last night. Mr. ROEBUCK—I wish you could hear his soft voice, in such contrast with the hard words he uses—took up Lord PALMERSTON on the neutrality question. He had the greatest confidence in Lord PALMERSTON, but it was unfortunate that he was overruled and overshadowed in the Government by Earl RUSSELL, who had been disgracing the country, "screaming like a cockatoo; scolding like an angry woman," falling everywhere, and filling the measure of ignominy by truckling to that "base, corrupt, cruel and cowardly" Federal Government. The cause of this outburst was a report that Earl RUSSELL had sent a remonstrance to Richmond, against Confederate violations of English neutrality; in fitting out cruisers, etc., while no remonstrance had been sent to Washington against the notorious enlistments in Ireland.

Lord PALMERSTON was angry, and had a right to be. He resented the charge that he was overruled or overshadowed by the little foreign secretary, and declared that he was fully responsible for every act of Earl RUSSELL. The government was neutral and meant to be. If any case was made out against the Federal Government, they should remonstrate. A vessel like the Alabama was a tangible thing; but it was very difficult to get evidence of enlistments. There was a great demand for work in America, and the wages were a strong inducement to emigration.

Mr. ROEBUCK will be plentifully abused in the government papers; but he spoke the almost universal belief, when he said that PALMERSTON was overshadowed by RUSSELL, and not in the American business only. It is generally thought that if PALMERSTON had his own way, a fleet of British iron-clads would be at this moment in the Baltic.

The Mazzini question came up again in an awkward and damaging way for the Government. Mr. STANSFELD, of the Admiralty, declared himself a friend of MAZZINI of seventeen years' standing; and that he knew him to be incapable of conspiring to assassinate. Well, Mr. HENNESSY got up last night and read half a dozen extracts of MAZZINI's writings defending and approving of assassination. Then some one turned upon Mr. HENNESSY with the numbers who had been polgniarded by his friends the Poles. It was a lively debate all round for a couple of hours, and a part of it was in consequence of the news brought by Sunday's steamer, which sent Confederate stock up as well as Mr. ROEBUCK.

As to Denmark and the expected war. The actual war makes little progress. The Germans are preparing to take Fredericia and expel the Danes from Alsen, but they take their time. The entire loss of the Danes, so far, is a little more than 2,000. But the Duchies are gone. I do not see that they can ever be recovered, simply because a majority of the people wish to have an independent Government, in unity with Germany. Austria and Prussia still profess that they have no wish to sever them from Denmark, and that they will be bound by the treaty of 1852. But the only result of conference or arbitration will be to leave the decision to the vote of the people of the Duchies.

Never, perhaps, in the history of the world were there such strange complications as are brought about by this question. For example, at the christening of the son and heir of the Prince of Wales, German and Danish princes and princesses were jostling each other around the font. On Saturday night the new Emperor and Empress of Mexico came from Paris to London via Calais and Dover, and are now at the Clarendon Hotel. On Sunday they dined with the Prince and Princess of Wales and King LEOPOLD of Belgium. Just imagine it all. There sat the Princess, drinking wine with the brother of the Emperor of Austria, at war with her father, and there was the good old LEOPOLD, the mutual friend of everybody.

There is a report here that the Prince of Wales, at a dinner of the Guards the other night, emboldened perhaps by the conviviality, gave a toast wishing the Austrians and Prussians who are invading Denmark the fate of Pharaoh and his host. The story got wind, and the Globe denied its truth; but it is not the less confidently asserted, and the language, it is said, was even a little stronger than was reported. Now, fancy this high and mighty Prince doing the honors of hospitality to Austrian Archdukes and German serene Highnesses!

This being the state of the case, what has England to do but push on the Conference project, if Denmark will only agree to it.

But there is a new phase of the case. We read of an insurrection in Copenhagen. How well-founded the report may be I cannot say; but there is nothing more natural than that the Danish people, deserted by their allies, overpowered by superior numbers, and in danger of national extinction, should look to a Scandinavian unity as its only safety. If Denmark could unite with Sweden and Norway, there might be formed a kingdom not very easy to grapple with. But would Russia permit the formation of such a Power on her western border, strong enough to hold the Baltic, and shut her up in Cronstadt, and out of the Atlantic?

In all this confusion and fog of Northern European politics, it is a happiness to find two great potentates that are in perfect concord. David and Jonathan were types of the ardent friendship that has sprung up between the Emperors of France and Mexico. They have the best possible opinion of each other, and the most perfect agreement. When MAXIMILIAN embraced NAPOLEON at parting, the latter said to him, "Vous partez pour un Empire fait d'un bloc d'argent." I can fancy the Imperial Hapsburgh, landing at Vera Cruz, and looking about for the glittering phenomenon. Country boys used to imagine that the streets of London were paved with gold. It is just possible that this amiable Austrian may be as much disappointed as they, when he looks for the silver. It is there, no doubt, but there will be some hard work to get it.

MONADNOCK.

SUMMARY OF THE AMERICA'S NEWS

ENGLAND.

PROCEEDINGS OF PARLIAMENT.

In the House of Lords, Monday, March 14,

Lord GRANVILLE announced that the House would adjourn on Friday next for the Easter recess.

Lord DERBY asked Lord WODEHOUSE a question in reference to a speech made by Mr. HALL, the Danish Minister.

Lord WODEHOUSE explained that when he stated to Mr. HALL his belief that nothing the Danish Government could do would arrest the course taken by the German Powers, he alluded to the execution in Holstein ordered by the Diet.

Lord CAMPBELL asked as to the meaning of words imputed to Prince GORTSCHAKOFF as to a combination between Russia, Austria, Prussia and England.

Earl GRANVILLE said Prince GORTSCHAKOFF could only refer to the proposal for a conference. England had entered into no combination that could be considered as displaying the slightest hostile feeling toward France.

In the House of Commons Monday, March 14, Mr. ROEBUCK, in the course of his remarks, said: We have always had some member of what is called a revolution family in a Liberal administration, who has governed, perverted and destroyed it. [Laughter.] The person to whom I allude is Earl RUSSELL; and I may say that the honor of England in his hands has not shone forth with the brightness that I could have wished. [Hear, hear.] Let us go, Sir, from China to Japan, though that is not far. [A laugh.] But if I go farther, if I go to Poland, then to Denmark, and lastly to America, in every case I find that the honor, the name of England has been tarnished by what has taken place. [Hear, hear.] Sir, I have read the dispatches on this matter, and the feeling predominant in my mind was that of dire humiliation. [Hear, hear.] I felt that the honor of England was not upheld as it ought to have been, and that the strict neutrality which the noble Lord the First Minister professes, and professes honestly, I am sure, was not maintained. Why, Sir, the tone used was in the first place like the scream of a cockatoo or the scolding of an angry woman. [Laughter.] The end was most unequal to the beginning; the words were big, but the deeds were the least possible. The noble Lord the Foreign Secretary seemed frightened by the bluster of the Federal Government, and the moment Mr. ADAMS threatened war he crouched before the menace, and England seemed to lose her position among the nations. [Hear.] That being the case, Sir, I feel that I have a right to inquire what is the neutrality which the noble Lord professes, and what is the state of the two peoples between whom we profess to be neutral? Now, first and foremost, we may supply contraband of war, and we supplied it to both sides. There is no difference whatever there. The next thing that we have supplied is the men, who have gone in hundreds and thousands from this country to America and enlisted as soldiers to fight her battles. A very small number of our men have gone and enlisted in the navy of the Confederate States, and then comes Mr. ADAMS, and says, "Aye, but these sailors of yours have chased from the face of the waters American commerce." If they have done so, I, Sir, am very glad. [Laughter.] But where is the difference between this and what has been done by our own men in America? They have enlisted as military men, and where peace and happiness reigned before they have been made the instruments of spreading a wide and desperate desolation. [Hear, hear.] The whole proceedings of this American war are a blot upon human nature. [Hear, hear.] They are corrupt, they are base, they are cowardly, and they are cruel. ["Hear, hear," and "Oh!"] You say "Oh;" but I want to know what they have said of England, and whether they have not said far worse than that of her. But I maintain that the spectacle they have exhibited is truly deplorable and debasing. Sir, there are two things which our law distinctly prohibits, and the Attorney-General can correct me if I am wrong. The first of those two things is the supplying of ships, armed and equipped, to a State at war with another State with which we are in friendship. This is said to have been done in this country with respect to the Confederate States, and that matter is now sub judice. The Attorney-General, with all his acumen and all his power of persuasion, has not been able to convince a jury of his countrymen that our law has been broken by the Confederate States of America. The next thing is the enlisting of men here to fight in the cause of the Federals, and that is now what is being done in Ireland. The right honorable baronet, the Secretary of the Lord-Lieutenant, last year acknowledged that the Government of Ireland was perfectly aware of what was going on in Ireland at that time, [hear, hear,] and at this present moment we see it broadly stated in the Times newspaper that the same thing is going on now. [Hear, hear.] I say, then, as you have determined to remonstrate with the Confederate States on mere suspicion—for you have carried it no further—are you prepared now, on mere suspicion, to remonstrate with the Federal States on their enlistment of men in Ireland for the purposes of the war in America? [Hear, hear.] The question is clear, definite, understandable. I have perfect faith in the noble Lord at the head of the Government, and that he will give me a categorical answer; and if he determines not to make that remonstrance, I hope he will be able to make it clear to the House that he has a good reason for that abstinence on his part. I myself feel that on this occasion the honor of England is at stake; that we have, under the threat—for it is a threat—of a war with America, determined as far as we can to deprive the Confederate States of any assistance they can derive from this country. [Hear, hear.]

Viscount PALMERSTON—Sir, my honorable and learned friend has been kind enough to pay me some compliments; but I beg to say I can accept of no one's compliments at the expense of a colleague. [Loud ministerial cheers.] I must declare to the honorable and learned gentleman, who has endeavored to separate me from my noble friend at the head of the Foreign-office, that I am equally responsible with him for every step he has taken in the conduct of every negotiation which seems unhappily to have excited feelings of humiliation in the mind of my honorable and learned friend, a feeling which I believe is not shared by the people of this country. [Cheers.] A feeling which I am confident will not be shared by any man of impartial mind who shall look with attention to the different steps which have been taken in all those great transactions to which allusion has been made. Now, Sir, we have declared our intention to observe strict neutrality in the contest unfortunately being carried on in America, and I maintain we have kept our word and acted on our declaration. The honorable and learned gentleman contends that we have dealt a different measure of justice to one side from that we have dealt to the other. Well, it should be remembered that the two sides stand in a very different position in regard to the assistance which they may derive from this or any other quarter. The Federals command the sea; all their ports are open; they can go to Birmingham, Liege, or any other place where arms and ammunition are manufactured; they may buy what articles they like, ship, and safely convey them to their own ports. They have the command of the markets of Europe. The Confederates, on the other hand, have not these advantages. They are shut out from the sea; they can only get supplies by blockade-runners, many of which are taken, and few comparatively escape. Therefore, the conditions of the two parties are not equal, although we observe an equal law of neutrality in regard to both. It is true that there is also a great difference between the obtaining ships from a neutral country and the obtaining of arms and ammunition. I don't dispute that in point of principle and our own municipal law these two things stand on an equal footing—that is to say, that by international law and obligation, if a belligerent goes to a neutral country and buys arms, cannon and ammunition wherewith to arm large armies, he derives from that neutral a greater assistance towards deciding the war than perhaps one, two, or more cruisers can have on the ultimate fate of the war, although they may affect the injury of individuals. But we have a municipal law which overrides in some respects international obligations, and we are bound to prevent certain things being done in this country for the benefit of one belligerent against another. We are bound not to permit enlistments and organizations of men, and also to prevent the equipment and armament of ships. The one is an easy thing to prevent. The armament and equipment of a ship is a notoriety. A ship is a tangible thing; you can see with your eyes the progress made in its construction and equipment; you can interfere at the proper moment, and lay your hand on it to prevent a breach of the law being committed. But with regard to the enlistment of men you have not the same means. The honorable and learned gentleman says that great enlistments of men have been made in Ireland for the Federals. That may be so or not; but in order to punish those who have been guilty of that breach of our laws, you must have proof—proof which is not easily obtained. I dare say, speaking only from common report, it is very likely there are in Ireland agents acting under the orders of the Federal Government to induce fighting men to go and enlist in the armies of the Federals; but they are much too wise and cunning to make their enlistments in Ireland. There is, we know, so great a difference between the wages of labor in the United States and the wages of labor in Ireland that in order to induce men to go it is sufficient to tell them, "Come as laborers." There is this railway and that railway, this work and that work, and, instead of 1s. or 1s. 6d., you will get 10s. a day. They are, I say, much too wise to talk of enlistment in Ireland. They induce the people to go to find a better market for their labor, and when these men land at New-York, there are people there to induce them to enlist in some Ohio regiment or another and become soldiers, with the chance of plunder, and God knows what besides. [A laugh.] I say, therefore, that though the statement of the honorable and learned gentleman be substantially true, that inducements are held out in Ireland to people to go to the United States with the intention that when they get there they shall be inveigled into the army, yet to found any legal prosecution on these transactions you must have proof, which we are unable to get. But we have remonstrated generally on the subject, and if the honorable and learned gentleman will look into the papers which were laid before Parliament last year, he will see that representations have been made to the United States Government on the reports and rumors which reached her Majesty's Government on the subject. There was lately a transaction which engaged the serious attention of the Government. The Kearsage, a Federal cruiser in the harbor of Cork, was accused of having enlisted a number of men to serve in that vessel; representations were made to Mr. ADAMS; the men were returned to the shore, and if sufficient proof could have been afforded to identify those connected with that transaction, no doubt a prosecution would have been instituted.

Mr. KINGLAKE, said the honorable and learned gentleman (Mr. ROEBUCK) had thought it becoming to apply to the Government of Washington the epithets "base," "cowardly," and "corrupt." He wished to state, that in his opinion, the charges of the honorable and learned gentleman did not represent the opinion of this House, or of any party or fraction of a party in this House, but simply represented that for which the honorable and learned gentleman had, no doubt, a great respect—namely, the opinion of the honorable and learned gentleman. ["Hear," and a laugh.] If the people of America were rendered indignant by language like this, it would be easy to explain to them by what manner of man it had been used. They might, perhaps, suppose that he was a kind of oracle in that House. No doubt the honorable and learned gentleman spoke with a kind of mystery and confidence, which were attributed to the oracles of old. But one only expected oracles to speak when somebody consulted them; whereas the honorable and learned gentleman was not consulted, so far as he knew, by any party, any fraction of a party, or any group of men. [Laughter.] The American people should also be reminded that the same speaker who used this language of them applied the language which the House had just heard to Lord RUSSELL, declaring that his utterances were like the screamings of a cockatoo and the anger of a scolding woman. It was to be hoped that the Americans would be as indifferent to the language used by the honorable gentleman as he was sure Lord RUSSELL would be when he heard that he had been vilipended by the honorable and learned gentleman.

In the House of Lords, Tuesday, March 15, the Earl of Ellenborough said he should call attention to the differences between Denmark and Germany on Friday. He asked if the identical Note from Austria and Prussia which had been published was correctly reported. The Duke of Somerset said that the published note was substantially correct.

TERRIBLE CALAMITY AT SHEFFIELD.

From the London Times, March 15.

At a little before midnight on Friday last one of those terrific disasters to which nearly all the great towns in the north of England are more or less exposed happened at Sheffield. The great reservoir of the Sheffield Water Company—a reservoir nearly 100 acres in extent, and which held more than a million cubic feet of water, suddenly burst its embankment and swept with the fury of another Deluge down the narrow gorge formed by the Loxley and Stannington Hills into Sheffield itself. Almost before warning could be given the volume of waters began rushing headlong down the valley, sweeping farms and houses, forges and factories, like chaff before it. Never, probably, before has an accident of the same kind occurred so ruinous in its wholesale destruction of property, so lamentably fatal in the loss of human life. Whatever the sudden and tremendous flood could reach it seems to have destroyed, and, calculating only by the number of houses swept away and the persons missing who were known to have been in them on that fatal night, there is every reason to fear that the lives sacrificed by this awful calamity will not be less than 200, if they do not unfortunately exceed even that number. Of the damage done to property it is impossible at this early date to form even a conjecture. The devastation in this respect is unparalleled. A large, populous and thriving district has been almost obliterated from the earth, scarce more than traces of the houses and factories that once stood there now remaining. The Don, owing to late heavy rains, was unusually high, and the additional water thrown into it has laid hundreds of acres under water, and inflicted incalculable injury to the growing crops. Of the destructive character of the flood there were abundant evidences on every hand. Timber in large quantities, bedposts, feather-beds, tables, clocks, and various kinds of household furniture passed down, and several carcases of cattle also.

Large numbers of people have lined the river's banks all the day, but it is now evident that the greatest volume of water has passed by, and further damage here is not apprehended. The water is very thickly impregnated with mud—a proof that it must have swept with terrific violence over the land adjoining the river. Fish, pike in particular, have been left in large quantities on land from which the water has subsided.

LATER.—Every additional inquiry made into the circumstances of this appalling calamity shows that it has been much more disastrous than was at first anticipated. It is now estimated that the loss of life will exceed 250, and that the value of the property destroyed exceeds half a million. From Bradfield, where the reservoir burst, down the course of the rivers for twelve or fourteen miles the country is laid waste. The reservoir covered an area of seventy-six acres, and would hold 114,000,000 cubic feet of water. The embankment, which crossed the end of the valley, was an enormous erection, with an average height of eighty-five feet, and forty feet in thickness. It was three hundred yards long. Between Matlock and Hillsborough, a distance of four miles, the greatest loss of life has been caused. Within this tract whole rows of houses have been swept entirely away, in three of which alone there were 25 lives were lost. In the opposite row the whole of the inhabitants were drowned, and scarcely any of their bodies have been discovered. The flood seems to have swept off everything before it, from the confluence of the Loxley and the Revilin to the Don. Between Wardsend and Sheffield on the Don, the bodies were seen lying in the mills and the mud and ruins. There were fourteen in one place, ten in another, and thirteen in a third. At Neepsend 900 acres of gardens were devastated, and whole families were swept away. An official report just received states that one hundred and fifty-six dead bodies have been already recovered; seventy have been identified. Large numbers are not yet found. Bodies have been discovered as far down the river as Doncaster. Along the banks of the river, between that town and Sheffield, the scene of the inundation was visited by vast crowds on Sunday; the police and a strong military guard acted for the maintenance of order and the security of property. A movement for a general subscription was immediately commenced, and a meeting will be held to-morrow. The inhabitants of the submerged districts have lost everything, and an appeal for instant help will be made; hundreds have nothing left of their property but their night dresses. The inquests were opened on Saturday night, and then adjourned for ten days. There were then ninety bodies in the workhouse, and the coroner said he had been informed there had been nearly 200 found. He referred to a statement, which is generally made and believed, that, in consequence of the dangerous state of the reservoir, warning was sent to the inhabitants of the valley as far as Darnflask, and that only a few lives were lost there, but that the warning was not sent to the thickly peopled districts below.

ENGLAND'S CONFERENCE.

The Times, of Monday, in a leader, says: There is very good reason to believe, though the matter cannot yet be announced as absolutely certain, that the conference which England has so earnestly endeavored to call together will, after all, actually assemble. The last opportunity is thus given for the nations of Europe to put an end to a state of affairs the tension of which is becoming day by day more and more insupportable, and to prevent the catastrophe which otherwise cannot be much longer deferred.

MAXIMILIAN IN LONDON.

The Archduke arrived in London on March 13, and immediately proceeded to Marlborough House to pay a visit to the King of the Belgians, the father of the Archduchess. Later in the day the Princess of Wales drove out with the Archduchess. Their Imperial Highnesses dined with the Prince and Princess of Wales to meet the King of the Belgians at Marlborough House.

FRANCE.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

The Memorial Diplomatique says: The draft of a treaty was agreed upon at the Tuileries, to be ratified as soon as the Emperor MAXIMILIAN I. shall have ascended the Mexican throne and announced his accession to the Court of the Tuileries. If we are rightly informed, the treaty definitively settles two important questions. First, the French occupation; and secondly, the claims of the French Treasury on the Mexican Government. It is already known that the pay and maintenance of the troops engaged in the expedition have, since Jan. 1, 1864, been borne by Mexico. This will continue until their recall, which will gradually be effected as the regimental lists of the Mexican army are completed.

Three battalions of the Foreign Legion, each 2,000 strong, and composed of enrolled volunteers, will remain in the service of Mexico. The desire of French officers to enter this service is so great, that for some weeks past the number of aspirants has far exceeded the ranks to be filled up. The Mexican debt due to France comprises besides the pecuniary claims of private persons, duly acknowledged, the costs of the expedition and the advances made by France to the Mexican Treasury to defray the expenses of the army of occupation. The debt will be paid by fourteen annual installments, each, probably amounting to 25,000,000f., with the option of previous liquidation should the condition of the Mexican finances admit of it. According to another statement of the Memorial, all the Mexican prisoners of war in France have submitted in writing their adhesion to the Archduke's Government previous to his departure for London.

Dispatches from Vera Cruz of Feb. 14, state that the report of the abdication of JUAREZ, which had been circulated, is unfounded. The cruise of Admiral BOSSE has been productive of very satisfactory results. It is asserted that the Federals have violated Mexican territory, by going to Matamoras, in order to seize cotton belonging to the Confederates.

The Duke of Saxe Coburg leaves Paris on the 14th for Germany.

THE GERMAN WAR QUESTION.

The Pays says: Bavaria will pursue the same policy as hitherto, with regard to the question of the Duchies. King LOUIS considers his first duty to be the fulfillment of his father's last wishes.

La France, alluding to the rumors of a conference, says: "England and Russia are endeavoring to induce Denmark to accept an armistice on the basis of uti possidetis. The two armies would remain during the conferences in the same positions they now occupy. England and Russia point to the reiterated declarations by Prussia and Austria of their intention to respect the integrity of Denmark. Prussia and Austria are acting upon the Confederation to bring about its acceptance of the conference upon the bases above mentioned."

A telegram from Paris, of March 12, says: "The Emperor received the Duke of SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA yesterday."

The Temps believes that the Duke has come to Paris with the assent of several other German Sovereigns, to explain to the Emperor the position of Germany, and to induce the Emperor to recognize the rights of the Duchies of Schleswig and Holstein to decide freely upon their future government.

THE WAR IN DENMARK.

A telegram from Copenhagen of March 11, says: "The Prussians have arrested HERR STOCKFLETH, the Alntmann of Hadersteben. The use of the Danish stamped paper with the King's initials has been prohibited in Schleswig, as has also the use of the prayers for the King of Denmark in the churches. Danish coinage has been abolished in Schleswig, and German introduced instead. A German office for the supervision of the Schleswig postal arrangements has been established in Flensburg, at the head of which is an official from the Prussian post-office." A telegram of March 12 says: "The enemy, whose vanguard was yesterday at Horsens, pursued Gen. HEGERMANN'S army corps, with twenty-one battalions of infantry, cavalry and artillery, as far as Fredericia. The enemy is in force."

A telegram of March 13 says: "It is officially stated that, according to intelligence received via Korsoer, the enemy entered Aarhus on the 12th. An important engagement took place on the 13th at Sundewitt."

The Dagblad publishes a telegram stating that 600 Jutland peasants, comprising both old and young men, have been compelled by the enemy to assist in the erection of the trenches before Fredericia.

A telegram from Frankfort of March 12 says: "In to-day's sitting of the Federal Diet the motion of Bavaria for the recognition of the Duke of Augustenburg was brought forward."

The Austrian and Prussian representatives proposed the adjournment of the motion until the committee should have reported on the succession question, declaring that they would very shortly state their views on the subject. On account of this declaration the Bavarian representative stated that he would not insist upon his right, as mover of the proposition, to put the question to the vote within a week. The debate was adjourned. The motion of Saxony and Wurtemburg to convene the Holstein Diet, and that of Hanover, to surrender the captured German shipping, was referred to a committee.

The commandant of the garrison of Hamburg left on the 11th for Cuxhaven, to hasten the construction of the fortifications erected to defend the entrance to the Elbe.

The list of the allied troops killed in the engagement of the 8th, has been published. The Austrian loss amounted to 108 men.

A telegram from Velle says: "The Austrian troops having repeatedly been molested by the inhabitants of this place, Gen. GABLENZ has ordered that all munitions of war and arms in possession of civilians shall be delivered up to the military authorities within twenty-four hours."

A telegram from Berlin, of March 12, says: "Five Danish steamers, one of them carrying forty guns, are cruising off Stralsund, where the Prussian flotilla is still ice-bound."

The Danish infantry has embarked at Aarhus for Fredericia and Alsen. The cavalry have started for Viborg. Gen. VON GABLENZ has returned from Velle.

A telegram from Gravenstein of March 14, says: "Several battalions of ROSER'S Prussian brigade have taken Nubel. Rackebull was occupied after a sharp contest. An unimportant engagement took place before Duppel. A detachment of Danish troops was driven from Lillemalle on the 12th by two companies of the Fifteenth, and Fifty-fifth regiments. The enemy lost 33 prisoners." The Lubecker Zeitung, of March 14, announces that on the 10th an order was issued to the troops in Schonen (Sweden) to be ready to march within four days.

A telegram from Berlin of March 14 says: "The Minister of War has issued the regulations to be observed by commanders of Prussian ships-of-war in reference to the capture of Danish and suspicious shipping.

Holstein and Schleswig ships will not be regarded as hostile vessels. The flag protects the cargo. Neutral cargoes under the enemy's flag will not be confiscated. In both cases contraband of war is excepted. Subjects of the enemy on board captured vessels are to be treated as prisoners of war."

The Kreuz Zeitung states that the bombardment of the Duppel fortifications from Vemmingbund has commenced.

A telegram from Kolding, of March 13, says: "Marshal VON WRANGEL has issued a proclamation prohibiting the export of horses, cattle and grain from Jutland, under penalty of confiscation. The roads are impassable in consequence of heavy rains."

TURKEY.

IMPORTANT FROM KENTUCKY.

Paducah Captured by the Rebel Gen. Forrest.

The City Sacked and then Destroyed.

Severe Repulse of the Enemy's Attack Upon the Fort.

The Rebels Lose 300 Killed and 1,000 Wounded.

Retreat of their Force in a Crippled Condition.

CAIRO, Saturday, March 26.

Reports were circulated here this morning that the rebels, under FORREST, attacked Paducah, Ky., 50 miles above here, yesterday, and burned part of the town; but as telegraphic communication is cut off, no authentic information could be obtained.

The steamer Iatan, from Nashville, passed Paducah at 5 o'clock this morning, and the Joseph Pearce, which passed two hours later, brings the following account of the affair:

Gen. FORREST, with an estimated force of 5,000, captured the place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, sacked and fired the City. Col. HICKS, commanding the post, occupied the fort below the City with about 800 men. The rebels made four assaults on the fort, and were repulsed each time. Three of our gunboats opened on the City during its occupation by the enemy, much of which was burned, including the marine railway and the steamer Arizona, the wharf-boat. About three thousand of the inhabitants of the city, moved across the river upon learning of the approach of the rebels. When the Pearce passed at 7 o'clock this morning, the enemy had left, the people were returning to the city, and the fires were dying out. The amount of public and private property captured is unknown at present, but is supposed to be large. Our loss is twelve killed and forty wounded. From 150 to 300 rebels are reported killed—among them Gen. THOMPSON. Twenty-five houses around the fort were destroyed by our troops as they were used by the rebel sharpshooters as a screen. The headquarters and Government storehouses were burned by the enemy. The Associated Press reporter has gone to Paducah, and will furnish the particulars at the earliest moment.

LATER.

CAIRO, Sunday, March 27.

A dispatch from Columbus, Ky., says FORREST and FAULKNER are between that place and Mayfield. Their forces are in a crippled condition. Their strength is much greater than was at first estimated. From twelve to fifteen hundred rebel wounded are said to have arrived at Mayfield from Paducah. One regiment lost one hundred men, and one company had fifty killed.

Fifty cents per ton in bankable funds, to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance in like funds on receiving the order for the coal, which must be called for within ten days thereafter, and the coal taken away within thirty days from the day of sale, unless navigation is obstructed. Buyers who wish, however, can have an additional thirty days for taking the delivery of their purchases, by making a further deposit of fifty cents per ton within the ten days above specified. Interest at 7 per cent. per annum will in such case be charged on the balance, from the time stipulated for payment until paid, and twenty-five cents per ton to cover the expense of stocking the coal—both to be paid on delivery of order.

The other conditions of sale will be substantially those hitherto accepted by all purchasers, by private contract, of coal deliverable at Elizabethport, so far as applicable. The coal will be delivered direct from the cars on their arrival from the mines, when practicable—otherwise from the stock. These conditions will be modified to meet the wants of ocean steamers, whose arrival cannot be definitely fixed. JOHN BRISBIN, President.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Paducah was captured by the rebels under Gen. Forrest, on Friday morning, at an early hour. They sacked the city and then burned it, destroying it almost entirely. They also attacked the fort held by our forces, but were repulsed with heavy loss, 1,300 killed and wounded, including a Brigadier-General. Subsequently the rebels retreated southward, apparently much crippled by their severe repulse.

The steamship Evening Star, from New-Orleans, on the 19th inst., arrived here Saturday, bringing confirmation of the reports received from the West relative to the capture of Fort De Russy and Alexandria, Western Louisiana, by the forces of Gen. A. J. Smith and Admiral Porter. Alexandria was surrendered to the gunboats without an attempt at resistance. Gen. Banks was to take the field in person, within a few days, and the army in Western Louisiana was again on the move, New-Iberia having been reoccupied by Gen. Lee's advance. Two of our gunboats had ascended Grand River to Butle-a-Rose, where last year a heavy engagement was fought, and destroyed a rebel camp. Guerrillas were becoming bold in the vicinity of Baton Rouge, and several skirmishes had taken place between them and the Fourth Wisconsin Infantry. A cotton buyer named Charles Zeigler, who had $10,000 in greenbacks, was captured by the guerrillas. Gov. Hahn had called an election for delegates to a Constitutional Convention to be held on the 28th instant.

There was a very gross error, as regards the State of Indiana, in the late statement from Washington professing to give the quotas, credits, and deficiencies of the various States under the President's calls for troops. The real condition of matters as regards volunteering in Indiana will appear, from the following official statement, taken from the records of the Adjutant-General of the State:

Recruits Mustered In.
Month of February, 1864	2,222
March 1 to March 10, 1864	3,036
March 11 to March 20, 1864	898

Excess to Jan. 31, 1864	7.330
	13,486
Quota for 200,000	13,008

Excess over all calls	11,253

The rebel Gen. Forrest, with 2,000 men, whose advance upon Union City, Tenn., was reported a few days since, attacked that outpost on the 24th inst., and captured the small force of Union troops garrisoning the town. This force consisted of 400 of the Seventh Tennessee Cavalry, and they made a vigorous defence, repulsing their assailants three times before they surrendered to superior numbers. The enemy destroyed the defences and hurried southward with their prisoners.

President Lincoln Saturday issued his proclamation specifying the persons to whom the benefits of the Amnesty Proclamation of December last are intended to apply. He also authorizes every commissioned officer in the United States service, either naval or military, to administer the oath of allegiance, and imposes rules for their government, in the premises.

Huntsville, Ala., is at present the headquarters of the department of the Tennessee, Maj.-Gen. Sherman commanding. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj.-Gen. John A. Logan, has its headquarters there, and guards the railroad to Stevenson, 60 miles east, on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad.

Gen. Philip Sheridan, for a long time in command of a division of infantry in the Army of the Cumberland, has been appointed to the command of the cavalry corps of the Army of the Potomac, to succeed Gen. Pleasonton.

FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of the steamship America at this port yesterday, we have three days' later advices from Europe. An important debate took place in the House of Commons on the 14th inst., in which Mr. Roebuck took the British Government severely to task for what he called one-sided neutrality—for giving certain privileges to the Federal Government which he claimed were denied to the Confederates. He denounced the American war, the Government and the people, and expressed his joy that American commerce was being swept from the ocean. Lord Palmerston replied, ably defending the British Government, and explaining its position relative to the treatment extended to belligerents. Messrs. Bright and Kinglake both denounced Mr. Roebuck. A terrible calamity had occurred at Sheffield, in the North of England, by the bursting of an immense reservoir of over one hundred acres, which inundated the country for many miles, and drowned nearly three hundred people. Maximilian reached London on the 13th, and held an audience with the King of the Belgians, and afterward the Duke and Duchess rode and dined with the Prince and Princess of Wales. The draft of a treaty for Mexico, upon the accession of Maximilian, has been agreed upon by Mexico. The Danish war presented no new features. Military preparations and some slight movements were still going on. The London Times affects to believe that there is still a good prospect that England's proposal for a conference will be accepted.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Champion, from Aspinwall, March 16, arrived at this port yesterday. The news from South and Central America is unimportant. President Murillo had not yet arrived at Santa Marta, where he was expected, to be inaugurated President of the United States of Colombia. Mosquera had written a very savage reply to an edict of the Pope, in which the latter made severe charges of intolerance against Mosquera's Government.

The Twenty-sixth Regiment U. S. C. T. were presented, yesterday, on board the steamer Warrior, with a stand of colors prepared by the ladies of New-York.

The rain-storm on Saturday checked business materially. Flour and Wheat were in moderate request at full rates. Corn was more active and decidedly higher. Barley and Oats were in fair demand and held with more firmness. Whisky was less freely dealt in. Provisions and Groceries were less sought after at about former quotations. Wool was in fair request and somewhat firmer. Hay was moderately dealt in. Cotton and Tallow were less active. The Freight market was quiet, with 424 vessels, of all classes, in port.

The Stock market left off active on Saturday and higher on some of the Railways. Money 6@7 ₩ cent. Gold 168¾.

Mutterings of War in Europe.

The murmurings that come over the water from England, have an ominous and threatening sound, not certainly foretelling the shock of arms, but, as before the Grimean "drifting" into war, they betoken the uneasiness and the slow up-working of the popular feeling on a question which may at any moment plunge the nation into a tremendous struggle. Mr. Kinglake, in his singular chronicle of England's last great war, has shown conclusively how much her slow and conservative population are moved to important measures by mere feeling and passion. It is commonly supposed that Democracies alone are plunged into dangerous wars through sympathy and martial instinct. But the impartial and careful records of the Crimean struggle, show that no riotous and impulsive mob ever were urged on to a dangerous crisis more by mere feeling, without regard to interests or wisdom, than were the English nation at that momentous emergency. England, it is true, can sift down her popular passions through the medium of a governing aristocracy; but even they are deeply affected by a prejudice extending through the middle classes.

The feeling is now evidently abroad through the British people that England's moral position in Europe and through the world is by no means a very honorable or influential one at the present time. However the Tory organs may sneer at the efforts of an American Republic to preserve her existence and power over a continent, no Englishman would ever consent to Great Britain's giving up the slightest vestige of her imperial power, whether in Europe or Asia. A deep sentiment of indignation and shame is gradually revealing itself through the people, as if England had brought herself to disgrace by a diplomacy which was very brave in words and very weak in actions, and as though the last insult which could be offered to an Englishman had been thrown at the nation—a charge of a national want of pluck.

The people cannot but see that for the last twelve months, at every step of their negotiations with different Powers, the English Government has been snubbed. In the Danish question, it appears to the popular apprehension as if they had stirred up an ally to resist a powerful enemy, and then had abandoned her in the heat of the battle. Denmark, the old friend of Great Britain, seems about being annihilated by two Powers with whom England has but little sympathy. Still further, rumors come of a new Holy Alliance between Austria, Prussia and Russia, in which Poland and Denmark are to be sacrificed. The Austrian fleet is ordered to the Baltic, perhaps to destroy the last remnants of the naval power of the Danish Kingdom. All these causes are enough to arouse a deep feeling in the English people.

Its mutterings are heard, especially in the House of Peers. Expressions of shame and anger, such as that guarded and habitually reticent body are not often led into uttering, have been somewhat freely passed to and fro; sharp questions are put to the Ministry, and unsatisfactory answers are returned; negotiation with Paris is frequent and mysterious. In the House of Commons, most bitter attacks are made on the Ministry; but as no leader of the Opposition can commit himself to any course of policy sufficiently different from that pursued by Earl Russell, no test vote has been called for. The Press is mourning over the national honor lost, or is urging a shop-keeping indifference to everything but a lessening of taxes and an increase of profits.

The slow-moving English mind is fermenting in its own peculiar way. It would need but very little—say a certainty of the new Holy Alliance cemented over a crushed Poland, or a sudden and overwhelming attack on the remaining possessions of Denmark—to set the smouldering popular wrath into a fierce blaze. No one who knows the English character can look with other than anxiety at a national indignation thus slowly and deeply forming itself. Unlike ourselves, the English fire up slowly, and, like ourselves, they burn long and intensely. At this moment, if Earl Russell were sure of the coöperation of France, we believe a British fleet would be anchored off Kiel. Still, these men, who hold the destinies of Europe in their hands, wisely pause before letting loose the furies of war over a continent. When England and France advance the tri-color and the red cross together against such an alliance, it means a convulsion so wide-spread, and a storm of havoc and desolation so terrible, that braver men than Napoleon and Russell might well hesitate.

War with the Holy Despotic Alliance is the summoning up of the Revolution, and when that spirit is abroad who can say what thrones or aristocracies shall survive?

The Nation and New-Jersey.

Congress is trying very hard to secure for the people and Government of the United States the right of traversing the soil of New-Jersey on the same terms as they have always been allowed to traverse every other State. A proposition is pending to declare the Raritan and Delaware Bay Railroad a postal route—so that mails, troops and munitions of war can be carried over it. The Legislature of New-Jersey objects, and insists that whatever, in the shape of freight or mails, crosses that State, shall go over the Camden and Amboy route, because she has given that road a monopoly of transportation, and tribute must be paid accordingly.

It seems very strange that there should be so much difficulty in passing so simple and so just a measure as this. No man anywhere, in Congress or out of it, doubts that the public interest would be promoted by such a measure, or that justice to the whole country requires it. The route from the National Metropolis to the National Capital, is the only great route in the country which is handed over to the service of a single line and the tender mercies of a railroad monopoly. Between Boston and New-York there are four or five lines in full operation; between New-York and Albany there are three or four; between New-York and Buffalo are two great routes, and the same thing is true in regard to lines connecting all the large cities of the North and West. The advantage and necessity of competition are universally felt and acknowledged, and in no other instance, except the one in question, has any State been allowed to establish itself as a permanent obstruction to commercial intercourse between the different sections of the country. New-Jersey claims the right to levy tribute on every passenger and every pound of freight that passes over her soil, and to restrict the transit to a single route.

It is quite time that this right was tested. We do not believe in its existence. We do not believe that any one State has the right thus to virtually interdict intercourse between the others. If New-Jersey has such a right under the Constitution of the United States, then the country must submit to it. But it is time the matter was decided, and we know no better way of reaching a decision than by passing the bill now pending in Congress, and then allowing the New-Jersey authorities to contest its constitutionality in the Supreme Court of the United States.

The public interest certainly demands greater freedom of transit on this great route. The right of the Government, even in the most pressing emergencies, to send troops over any other route than the one to which the State of New-Jersey has granted the monopoly, is denied and contested in her courts; and until Congress takes some definite and distinct action in the matter, this prohibition will undoubtedly be enforced. The whole country is looking with anxious and eager interest for some measure of relief; and it is not easy to understand the causes which delay, and threaten to defeat, the passage of the bill in question.

An Infuriated M. P.

The discussions on American affairs in the British Parliament, during its present sitting, have been mostly dull and stupid; but we have by yesterday's steamer the report of a debate that took place in the House of Commons a fortnight ago to-day, which must have been as entertaining there as it will be here. Mr. Roebuck assailed the Ministry, or at least one member of it, and this country, or at least the Union part of it, with a ferocity worthy of his reputation. It was Earl Russell and his foreign policy that he attacked—declaring that the tone used at first by the Foreign Secretary was like the "scream of a cockatoo," but that subsequently he "crouched before the menace" of the American Minister. He turned in absolute disgust from the "hypocrisy of the Northern States of America," finding them "corrupt, base, cowardly and cruel," and so forth—some of which epithets the Southern rebels have now learned too much to be so foolish as to employ. Lord Palmerston replied to the assault on his colleague, and defended the foreign policy of the Government. He would not accept of a compliment to himself at the expense of Earl Russell, and declared that he was equally responsible with his colleague for every step taken in the conduct of every diplomatic negotiation. He declared that Her Majesty's Ministers had proclaimed the neutrality of Great Britain, and that they had kept their word and acted on their declaration; and gave his opinion that this neutrality had been of far greater advantage to the North than to the South. Mr. Kinglake then arose, and, in referring to the language applied to the United States by the "honorable and learned gentleman," (Mr. Roebuck,) "wished to state that, in his opinion, the charges of the honorable and learned gentleman did not represent the opinion of this House, or of any party or fraction of a party in this House, but simply represented that for which the honorable and learned gentleman had, no doubt, a great respect—namely, the opinion of the honorable and learned gentleman. If the people of America were rendered indignant by language like this, it would be easy to explain to them by what manner of man it had been used. The honorable and learned gentleman was not consulted, so far as he knew, by any party, any fraction of a party, or any group of men. The American people," continued Mr. Kinglake, "should also be reminded that the same speaker who used this language of them applied the language which the House had just heard to Lord Russell, declaring that his utterances were like the screamings of a cockatoo and the anger of a scolding woman. It was to be hoped," repeated Mr. Kinglake, "that the Americans would be as indifferent to the language used by the honorable gentleman as he was sure Lord Russell would be when he heard that he had been vilipended by the honorable and learned gentleman." We can assure the cool-headed Crimean historian that the people of the United States will not get at all excited nor enraged at the language of the "honorable and learned" Roebuck, but will remain even more indifferent than Lord Russell to such assaults. And much as the character of the American Congress is abused abroad, we do not think there is a member of it who would apply to Mr. Roebuck or his country such language in such a spirit as he uses in Parliament upon us.

A Crisis in Canada.

The politicians of the adjacent British Provinces are enjoying the periodical relaxation of a crisis in their party arrangements. Two years ago the Parliament of the Colony outvoted the Conservative or Tory party, and there was formed in place of the outgoing Ministry, a Government supposed first of all to represent a liberal policy, and next, to put down its foot upon further advances to the Grand Trunk Railway. The incomers had an easy time of it, during a lengthened parliamentary recess. But they exhibited feebleness of purpose, and incapacity for work when the local Legislature reassembled. The consequence was a premature break-down. To mend matters temporarily, the party leader, Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, retained his own portfolio by consent of the Governor-General, after discarding the unpopular element (so-called) from the Cabinet, and a repaltrage was made up by the introduction of new members of more extreme opinions. The Premier hereupon appealed to the constituencies for their indorsation of his arrangements. A general election resulted in the return of an almost equal number of Ministerialists and Opposition members, and the present parliamentary session, now some six weeks gone, has developed from the opening day, the ministerial disorder which reached a crisis a week ago, when the Premier succumbed to the adverse opinion of the Legislature, threw up his seat, and by constitutional rule, involved his colleagues in the general collapse.

The struggle of the Liberals, however, to retain possession of power in a new form, was not given up, even with the dissolution of the Ministry. The retiring Premier asked the Governor to seek counsel from another member of the Radical party, and the Governor, Lord Monck, seems to have stretched his powers to give his late advisers this last chance of patching up. The result, however, proved a failure. The Conservatives of Lower Canada—who, strangely enough, include some of the most prominent rebels of '37—refused to form an alliance in any shape with Western radicalism. And here the Liberals had finally to acknowledge themselves beaten.

Following these events, came the Governor's message to the Conservative leader, Mr. George E. Cartier, asking his aid, and intrusting him with the duty of forming a Ministry. Mr. Cartier, however, failed in his efforts at construction. And at this hour we are advised that a more popular French Canadian—a former Prime Minister—Sir Etienne Tache, has been intrusted with the task of finding a new Government for the Province.

All this, perhaps, concerns us only in a remote way at present. But there is something worth making a note of in the fact that the retiring Ministry was as well disposed toward the United States, and to the cause for which the United States army is fighting, as the Liberals of the Mother Country, represented by Forster, Milner Gibson, Baxter, Bright, Cobden and others, in the House of Commons. The Colonial Ministers now placed in opposition were the same who forewarned the United States Government of the intended rebel raid upon the Northern frontier for the release of rebel prisoners, and for general plunder. These Ministers were the same who were taken to task by their party opponents, now invited to the Governor's Council, for this friendly act toward the United States. And, although it may interest us but little, the discarded Government was made up of men who have opposed the expenditure of colonial moneys for an expensive military road to connect Quebec with Halifax; and have almost come to an open rupture, besides, with the Imperial Government, on the question of organizing a local militia, to relieve the Mother Country from the burdens of maintaining a large regular force in the colony.

Looking at the party change from this distance, it appears to us that the new men will be more compliant than their predecessors, with any wish, either implied or expressed, by the Colonial Office in Downing-street. They will also belie their previous history, if they are not ready to meet the cravings of the Grand Trunk Railway for increased postal subsidies, which will take the form of an advance to the company in Provincial debentures, representing the capitalized yearly payments for a term of fifteen or twenty years. In other words the company have a fair prospect of an advance of from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000, in the form of a postal contract.

Then, again, there will be a large augmentation of the militia grant, if Sir Etienne Tache succeeds in forming his Cabinet. This French-Canadian Knight belongs to the military era of 1812-14. He is the reputed author of the observation that "The last shot fired on the American Continent in defence of monarchy, will be fired by the hands of a French-Canadian." He is a full Colonel of militia himself. He received knighthood at the hands of the Queen, either because he was, once before, Premier of the Province, or because he was a fighting militia-man fifty years ago, and made the sententious remark we have just quoted, some ten years ago.

The new Premier is a gentleman by education and breeding, and personally, he will do no discredit to his office, either in his dealings with his own countrymen or in the relations he may be brought casually into with strangers. Beyond this we can say nothing which could at all concern the mass of our readers, if we except a passing reference to the singular coincidence of the appointment, within the same month, of a "fighting Admiral" to the command of the British North American fleet—a n officer who, according to the London Saturday Review, will be as prompt as Sir Alexander Milne was slow to resent national insults—and the succession of a rebel sympathizing party to power in the most important of the British American Provinces.

AMUSEMENTS.

The announcements for to-night, Easter Monday, are full of interest. The Academy reopens under the approved direction of Mr. Max Maretzek. "Faust" is the work selected for the occasion, cast the same as heretofore. This popular opera—for such it may be called—will be played three times during the week, the remaining evenings being devoted to "Robert le Diable," in which Signor Brignoli will, we suppose, appear.

At Niblo's Garden the Richings have brought their season of emasculated opera to an end, and to-night the house returns to its allegiance under the banner of the legitimate drama and Mr. Edwin Booth. A new three-act drama by Mr. Tom Taylor, written for Mr. Phelps, the London actor, and called the "Fool's Revenge," will be produced. The distribution at Niblo's embraces all the leading members of the company. Miss Rose Ettinge also returns to the New-York stage in one of the leading rôles.

The "Ticket-of-Leave Man" received his final "clip on the head" on Saturday, when the Florences made their last appearance at the Winter Garden. To-night a new claimant of the public patronage makes her début, in the person of Mme. Methua-Scheller, a German actress of note, who has recently essayed English with success. Mme. Scheller plays the principal rôle in a new pastoral play called "Lorlie's Wedding," adapted, from the German, by Mr. Daly.

Mrs. Vernon, a most deserving and admirable artist, takes her benefit at Wallack's Theatre to-night—the play being Boucicault's "Love and Money." This very worthy lady does not appeal very often to the public, although an acknowledged favorite with every frequenter of the theatre. It is ten years since she last had a benefit; surely there will be an overwhelming house.

The comedy of "Leap Year" has been received with such favor at the Olympic that it will be repeated during the present week.

At the Theatre Français, to-morrow night, "Les Filles de Marbre" will be played for the last time.

Mr. Barnum's magic fountain has created a genuine sensation among the frequenters of the Museum. The effect of the last scene of "Aphrosa" is exceedingly brilliant and quite novel. This fairy spectacle and drama will be repeated every afternoon and evening during the week.

The Stereoscopticon continues to attract good audiences to Hope Chapel. The entertainment is unexceptionable.

The annual ball of the Melo-Choreans takes place at Irving Hall to-night. As it is the only artists' ball of the season, there is a great demand for tickets. Messrs. Beebe & Schirmer, of Broadway, and Mr. Harrison, of Irving Hall, have what few remain.

Mrs. Henry C. Watson will give a poetic and dramatic recitation at Dodworth's Hall, on Thursday next. The selections are excellent.

Mme. de Lussan will give a grand miscellaneous concert at Niblo's Saloon, on Wednesday evening, assisted by Miss Barkeloo, (mezzo-soprano,) Mme. Gonzales, (piano,) Signor Errani, (tenor,) and Mr. Henry Appy, (violinist.) Mr. Wm. Dressler is the conductor.

Union Meeting at Stamford.—Rev. Dr. Storrs repeats his stirring and eloquent address, recently given here and at Washington city, on "The Nation as it Must be After its Present Ordeal of Battle," at Stamford, Connecticut, this evening. Pending the election, just at hand, our friends there will listen to it with great interest and profit.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC

The Recent Attempted Raid by Stuart—How His Plans were Frustrated—Large Amount of Rebel Property Destroyed by Col. Bryan's Command—A Drum-head Court-Martial.

Army of the Potomac,
Saturday, March 26, 1864.

It will certainly be a source of satisfaction to the country to know that though apparently idle the Army of the Potomac is not asleep, as was fully illustrated in the recent attempted raid by Stuart. It is now definitely known that Stuart had made extensive arrangements to attempt the destruction of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad by crossing the Rappahannock just below Fredericksburgh with a force of 2,500 men and one battery, and sending a supporting force about equal in size across the river at a point higher up. Full information of this movement was received at an early moment, and so well in hand was our cavalry force that the whole plans of the enemy were frustrated by the timely action of Gen. Pleasonton. As a part of this movement Col. Bryan, of the 18th Pennsylvania Cavalry, was sent to a point near Grove Church, with a force to watch the enemy. How well this duty was discharged the sequel will show. He found the country filled with scouting parties from Stuart's command, and for several days his flanks and pickets were much harassed by a galling fire from a concealed enemy in almost every direction. Receiving reinforcements, Col. Bryan succeeded in capturing between 40 and 50 of the enemy, and destroying much valuable property. Two tanneries, full of hides, were destroyed between Grove Church and Kellysville, and two other establishments of a similar kind at another point; four grist mills; (two of them being Hunting & Embury's Mills.) were also destroyed; also a saw-mill. Having done this Col. Bryan made a thorough examination of the river to near Falmouth, destroying a large number of rafts and boats which had been got in readiness for the use of Stuart's command. At Ellis' Ford, where two large rafts and several launches were destroyed, our men captured a man named Royal, while acting as a scout, who was promptly tried by drum-head court-martial. The court was composed of the following officers: Lieut.-Col. Brinton, Capts. Philips, Britton, Hull, McGoffin and Lieut. Cunningham; Lieut. Austin acting as prosecuting officer. The trial took place in Grove Church, and was one of the peculiar scenes of this war. The prisoner, Royal, was charged with being a bushwacker, and would have been summarily punished had he been found guilty of the offence charged. In the graveyard adjoining the church are buried the remains of his parents. Summing up in his own defence the prisoner adverted to this fact in feeling terms, calling upon their spirits to confirm the truth of his assertions. It was a solemn and affecting scene. The accused satisfied the court that he was a member of the Ninth Virginia Cavalry, and was therefore held as a prisoner of war. He communicated one fact of some interest. He had on blue pants and blue overcoat, and a gray undercoat. In explaining why he wore this clothing, he stated that Lee had ordered all the bodies of Union soldiers to be stripped, the clothing washed, and then issued to his own men. This was the only clothing they had received for some time. Everything is quiet in front to-day.

Sudden Death in a Railroad Car.—Coroner Wildey held an inquest yesterday upon the body of Mr. Alexander Fraser, a wealthy gentleman of this City. Deceased was riding in a Sixth-avenue car on Saturday afternoon, and was taken suddenly ill. He was at once removed to a drug-store, but died on the way. Dr. Bouton made a post-mortem examination of the body and discovered that apoplexy was the cause of death. A verdict was rendered in accordance with the fact. Deceased was 55 years of age, and a native of Connecticut.

Attempt to Steal an Express Wagon and $4,000 Worth of Goods.—An express wagon belonging to Blundell's New-York and Patterson Express, was taken about 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon from the front of the Express office, No. 371 Washington-street, by some unknown party, and driven away. The man must have become suddenly frightened, as the wagon was found broke-down at the corner of Franklin and Centre streets shortly afterward. It contained about $4,000 worth of silks and other goods. Capt. Jourdan, of the Sixth Precinct, took possession of the property and delivered it to the owners.

PRESIDENTIAL PROCLAMATION.

THE AMNESTY PROCLAMATION DEFINED.

Persons Who May Apply for its Benefits.

Regulations Respecting the Oath of Allegiance.

Washington, March 26.

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, it has become necessary to define the cases in which insurgent enemies are entitled to the benefits of the Proclamation of the President of the United States, which was made on the 8th day of December, 1863, and the manner in which they shall proceed to avail themselves of these benefits; and whereas the objects of that proclamation were to suppress the insurrection and to restore the authority of the United States; and whereas the amnesty therein proposed by the President was offered with reference to these objects alone,

Now, therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare that the said Proclamation does not apply to the cases of persons who, at the time when they seek to obtain the benefits thereof by taking the oath thereby prescribed, are in military, naval or civil confinement or custody, or under bonds, or on parole of the civil, military or naval authorities, or agents of the United States, as prisoners of war, or persons detained for offences of any kind, either before or after conviction, and that on the contrary, it does apply only to those persons who, being yet at large, and free from any arrest, confinement or duress, shall voluntarily come forward and take the said oath, with the purpose of restoring peace and establishing the national authority.

Persons excluded from the amnesty offered in the said Proclamation may apply to the President for clemency, like all other offenders, and their application will receive due consideration.

I do further declare and proclaim that the oath presented in the aforesaid Proclamation of the 8th of December, 1863, may be taken and subscribed before any commissioned officer, civil, military or naval, in the service of the United States, or any civil or military officer of a State or Territory, not in insurrection, who by the laws thereof, may be qualified for administering oaths.

All officers who receive such oaths are hereby authorized to give certificates thereon, the persons respectively by whom they are made, and such officers are hereby required to transmit the original records of such oaths at as early a day as may be convenient, to the Department of State, where they will be deposited and remain in the archives of the Government.

The Secretary of State will keep a registry thereof, and will on application, in proper cases, issue certificates of such records in the customary form of official certificates.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington [L.S.] the 26th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1864, and of the Independence of the United States the Eighty-eighth.

By the President, ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
William H. Seward, Secretary of State.

UNITED STATES OF COLOMBIA.

The Expected Arrival of President Murillo—Affairs in Bogota—Pope Pio Nino and the Government of Colombia—Matters at Panama.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Wednesday, March 16, 1864.

We have no mails from Central or South America, with the exception of Ecuador, and from this Republic there is nothing of special note, except the fact that the Government has determined to bring the rebels of Antioquia to submission by force.

By the British steamer Talca, from Ecuador and the Southern ports of this Republic, we have a few items from the States of Cauca and Antioquia, and by the British steamer St. Thomas, we have dates from Santa Marta, on the Atlantic side to the 12th inst., and from Bogota to the 19th February. The United States war steamer ——, with President MURILLO on board, had not arrived at Santa Marta when the St. Thomas left that port. Great preparations were making at Santa Marta, and at the other places on the route to Bogota, the Capital, to give Señor MURILLO an enthusiastic reception.

The people in Cauca seem to apprehend a second raid of the Antioquians into their State by the way of Supia and Cartago, and have collected an army of, it is stated, 4,000 men under the command of Gov. PAYAN. This, says the Panama Star, seems very improbable to us, as it would seem foolish for the Antioquians to leave their strongholds in the mountains to expose themselves thus. A rumor speaks of the death of CORDOVA, one of the chiefs of the Antioquians.

MOSQUERA arrived at Popayan on the 5th of last month, and continued his march to Bogota on the 15th. He sent from Popayan an officer on a special mission to BERRIO, the rebel Governor of Antioquia, but this officer, it is said, was detained at Manjolos.

On the 15th of February, a resolution was passed by 43 votes against 4, as follows: "The Executive, without delay, will take steps to reëstablish the authority of the Government in the State of Antioquia, by war, if necessary." A resolution to the same effect had passed to a second reading in the Senate. Gen. SANTOS GUTIERREZ will lead the national forces against the insurgents.

Not long since the Pope of Rome issued a very abusive tirade against the Government of Colombia, in the shape of an "Encicilica" to the Archbishop of Bogota. President MOSQUERA, under date of Feb. 12, at Popayan, publishes a scorching reply, addressed "To all to whom these presents shall come," and in which Pio Nono is treated exactly as if he were a mere mortal, and a rather untruthful mortal at that. As this remarkable letter shows the progress of emancipation of the Spanish-American people from the rule of the Roman Church, I translate a few paragraphs from it:

"Whereas, An Encicilica of His Holiness PIO IX. to the Archbishop of Bogota has been published, in which His Holiness calumniates this Government with false accusations, and claims the right to interfere in the exercise of the sovereign authority of the Colombian nation, which claim is an inexcusable usurpation, and which Encicilica, without doubt, is intended to make trouble among our people, through the instrumentality of the Roman ecclesiastics who confound the holy religion of our Saviour, Christian, Catholic, Roman Apostolic, with the religion of Roman idolatry, I shall, as guardian of the public liberties, and as defender of the sovereignty and independence of this nation, repel, as I do now repel, this manifesto as an infamous libel.

Pope PIO IX. says that the Catholic Church has been assaulted, perturbed and lacerated by the Government of the Republic of New Granada in a cruel and nefarious manner. But the Holy Father, forgetful of the doctrine of Jesus Christ for peace and good will, and of the spirit of truth which always distinguished the holy apostles, his disciples, in these assertions is lacking in truthfulness, and uses language unworthy of the Holy Head in the government of the Church of God, of the Peters, Linos, Clements, Benedicts, and other true apostles, successors of Peter, Paul, James, Thomas and Bartholomew.

In what consists the multiplied and sacrilegious attacks charged by PIUS IX. against this Government? In nothing. The Church has never been treated otherwise than with proper decorum, as I proved in my dispatch to the Pope in my character of Chief Magistrate of this nation, and to which no reply has been made, though a letter from Cardinal ANTONELLI was published, which did not merit our attention, because it was filled with the same indecent, passionate and uncivil language as is the Encicilica which we refute.

"It is scarcely credible that in the face of the world, (says PIUS IX.,) the Colombian Government thinks to destroy the holy Catholic religion, its venerated rights, doctrines, worship, and holy ministers.' This allegation is false and injurious. PIUS, with such bitter declarations, believes he can create a revolution among us; and, following the example of other sanguinary Popes who have usurped civil power, which they call temporal, such as GREGORY VII., and others, whose acts have stained the pages of the history of Italy and Germany, destroy this people, in order that his waning temporal supremacy may find refuge on the virgin soil of America."

After showing conclusively, in succeeding paragraphs, that the Catholic Church and its ministers enjoy all the rights which are accorded to other sects and ministers—that its schools are free—that they have the right "to teach the falsehoods propagated by the Jesuits and other priests and monks"—that, in fact, the clergy are at liberty to exercise their calling as freely as they do in Spain, Austria or Portugal—and that all that is required of them is that they shall respect the civil authority, and not plot against the Government, President MOSQUERA concludes:

"Therefore, by authority emanating from the people, and from the Constitution of the nation, which I have sworn to defend, I reprobate and condemn the Encicilica of PIUS IX., dated Sept. 17, 1863; it is abrogated and suspended, as being opposed to the public peace, and to the imprescriptible rights of the nation, and I instruct all the national and State officers to enforce the law of Nov. 18, 1862, and to proceed against all those who shall act in accord with the indications of the said Encicilica, which is a tissue of falsehoods and a seditious paper, unworthy of a sacerdote who assumes to be the Vicar of Christ on the earth. And in conclusion, I protest against the hostile conduct of the Roman Pontiff, who is not the proprietor of Colombia, and as Christians we cite him before the All Powerful on the day of judgment in the Valley of Jehosophat. On that day, not as pontiff or magistrate, we shall be in the presence of God, and we are confident that in His goodness He will vindicate Colombia, and condemn the Roman priesthood in the person of the Prince of Three Crowns."

In Panama and Aspinwall there is nothing stirring. Monsieur ZELTNER, French Consul, and who claims also to be "Consul for the Mexican Empire," publishes a note in which he says the statement of Mr. ELY, United States Consul at Acapulco, that no correspondence is allowed to be landed from the American steamers at that port, is incorrect. Mr. ZELTNER says that letters may be sent as heretofore through the Pacific Mail Company's vessels, and assumes this to be the case because he has received no official communication to the contrary. Nevertheless, I would not advise anybody in the United States to send correspondence to Mexico through this channel, as, in the first place, Mr. ELY is more likely to be correct in his official statement than is Mr. ZELTNER; and, in the second place, I know that the French Admiral has refused to allow letters to pass into Acapulco until examined and read by his censors.

F. SEYMOUR, Esq., formerly Governor of British Honduras, arrived here last week from Europe, and has gone to New-Westminster, as Governor of British Colombia.

The Russian steam corvette Vitiaz, of 17 guns, from New-York, arrived at Aspinwall on the 10th, and left for Carthagena and the West Indies on the 14th.

The Spanish gunboat Virgen de Covadonga arrived at Panama on the 8th instant, and left on the 10th, with two Spanish diplomatic agents for Peru. The United States sloop-of-war Cyane and the British war-ship Devastation are in port.

The Secretary of the State of Panama has published a pamphlet, by direction of the Governor, in answer to the legal opinion lately given by the United States Consul, that the commercial tax levied in Panama and Aspinwall is illegal. He, of course, claims that the tax is illegal. The matter has been submitted to the two Governments of the United States and Colombia.

Maj. HEISS, formerly one of the editors of the Washington Union, and now a resident of Nicaragua, was in Panama on a visit, last week, and returned on Monday. The Major is engaged in business at Chinandega. He thinks Nicaragua is destined to be a very rich cotton and coffee-growing estate; and he moreover believes that this fact will be good bait for filibusters after our rebellion is crushed.

The Panama Railroad Company's barks American Eagle and Bolivar, and brig E. Drummond, have arrived at Aspinwall, from New-York, within the past few days.

Death of Owen Lovejoy.

OWEN LOVEJOY, the Member of Congress from the Fifth Illinois District, died in Brooklyn at half-past 11 o'clock Saturday night. He had been complaining since last January, but came to this City from Washington on the 15th, and the following day was out of doors; since then he has been confined to his bed with an affection of the liver and kidneys. He was attended in his last illness by his wife and daughter, and by many sympathizing friends.

Mr. LOVEJOY was a self-made man. Born in Kennebec County, Maine, in 1811, he passed his boyhood working on a farm, and paid his way through Bowdoin College by teaching school. Studying theology, he received a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Princeton, Illinois, and officiated there for sixteen years, until, in 1854, he was elected to represent his district in Congress, where he was prominent as a bold and fearless advocate of freedom for all.

Mr. LOVEJOY'S funeral will probably take place on Monday afternoon, and Rev. Dr. STORRS, Rev. Dr. CHEEVER and Rev. H. W. BEECHER will officiate.

EASTER SUNDAY.—Yesterday, Easter Sunday, was celebrated by almost all the churches in this City, particularly the Roman Catholic and Episcopalian. The services at Trinity Church were particularly beautiful and impressive. Long before the hour of opening, the church was filled and many were unable to gain admission; the music was excellent and very effective. At St. Patrick's Cathedral the occasion was celebrated with all the splendor and solemnity peculiar to their church. Rt. Rev. Bishop POTTER administered the rite of confirmation to a number of candidates at the Memorial Church, in Hammond-street, and throughout the City the day was more generally celebrated than has been before for years.

DEATH OF MATHIAS N. GOODERSON.—MATHIAS N. GOODERSON, proprietor of the "Park House, Junior," died at his residence, Saturday morning, of typhoid fever. Mr. GOODERSON was born in Philadelphia, in 1820. In early life he left that city for New-York, where his fortune was cast. Although a man of powerful physical development, he had a genial temper, and was noted for philanthropy and good will to all. For several years he was prominent in politics. From a position in the Custom-house he was appointed Commissioner of Repairs and Supplies, afterwards Superintendent of Markets. The funeral will take place to-day from the house of Mr. CORNELL, No. 117 East Forty-eighth-street.

Soldiers and Officers in the army, being exposed to sudden changes, should always be supplied with "Brown's Bronchial Troches," as they give prompt relief in a Cold, Cough or an Irritated Throat.

Morton's Gold Pens are now sold at the same prices as before the commencement of the war; this is entirely owing to the Manufacturer's improvements in machinery, his present large Retail Business and Cash-in-Advance System; for, until he commenced advertising, his business was done on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, as the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c.; but Morton has in no case changed his prices, Wholesale or Retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pen can be obtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted.

Reader, you can have an enduring, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens; and at the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Morton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," in another column.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.

CATARRH CURED.
READ!

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were constantly obstructed with a pouring fluid. That frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, often attended with a fullness of my throat, great soreness, and a continual dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I may, indeed, say that I feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is as skillful as it is successful. It is in my opinion impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done, I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

No. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain. JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. I tis with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, March 26, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

NOTICE TO THE FIRST AND SECOND MORTGAGE BONDHOLDERS OF THE PITTSBURGH, FORT WAYNE AND CHICAGO RAILWAY COMPANY.—The Board of Directors of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company have requested the undersigned to call meetings of the First Mortgage and Second Mortgage Bondholders, in pursuance of the provisions of the deeds of trust, for the purpose of considering certain modifications of the present financial system of the company, to which the assent of a majority in interest of each of those classes of bondholders by a vote at a meeting is necessary. The principle of the proposed measures was submitted to the annual meeting of the corporation held at Pittsburgh on the 16th inst., at which were represented a majority of the stockholders and of each class of the bondholders, and was unanimously approved.

The undersigned, therefore, in exercise of the authority conferred upon them by Article 12 of the First and Second Deeds of Trust, give notice that a will be held at the banking house of Winslow, Lanier & Co., No. 52 Wall-st., in the City of New-York, on THURSDAY, the 7th day of April, 1864, at 11 A. M., for the purpose of considering the aforesaid measures.

At such meetings the bondholders, if registered, may vote in person or by proxy.

Registration on the Voting Register can be made by any holder at the office or agency of the company, at the banking house of Winslow, Lanier & Co., where the books are now open for that purpose, on presentation by the holder of his bonds, or on his filing the written order of the person last registered as the holder.

The registration was originally in the names of the persons to whom the bonds were issued. In cases in which the bonds have since changed hands, the present holder can vote only by registering himself, or upon the proxy of the person last registered.

A general attendance of the bondholders is earnestly requested, as well to act on the questions aforesaid, as to perfect the organization contemplated in Article 12 of the Deeds of Trust.

The meetings of the First and Second Mortgage Bondholders will be held separately, but at the same time and place, and the holders of the Third Mortgage Bonds are invited to be present, though their action is not required by the Trust Deeds.

The resolutions adopted at the annual meeting, and the resolution of the Board of Directors requesting a call of meetings of the bondholders, are subjoined.

RESOLUTIONS

Recommended by the Board of Directors to the Stockholders for adoption at the Annual Meeting, March 16, 1864.

Resolved, That it is expedient that expenditures for construction, equipment and objects pertinent thereto, involving new capital, should in the main be provided for by an increase of capital stock of the company.

Resolved, That the increase of capital stock should be made solely for the purpose of building and completing a double track, or such part thereof as may be expedient, and for equipping the road and providing such additional rolling stock, machinery, appurtenances and other facilities as may be necessary to properly do all the business which may offer, and for no other purpose, and should only be issued from year to year in such amounts as the stockholders at their annual meetings may decide upon. Their decision shall be based upon detailed estimate, made by the Board of Directors, of the amount of money necessary for the work of the year, and that the new issue of stock shall only be sold at or public notice.

Resolved, That the increase of capital for 1864 shall not exceed $3,500,000.

Resolved, That the stockholders hereby recommend, and, so far as may be necessary, authorize the Board of Directors to make such agreement or arrangement with the holders of the bonds under the trust deeds as will enable them to increase the capital stock, as indicated in the preceding resolutions.

Adopted unanimously by vote of $4,563,000 out of $4,563,000 of stock; $2,729,500 out of $5,250,000 of first mortgage bonds; $3,766,000 out of $5,10,,000 of second mortgage bonds, and $1,826,000 out of $2,000,000 of third mortgage bonds, $400,000 not voting because not registered.

$1,000 FORFEITED AND NO CHARGE UNLESS CURED.—Dr. Hunter's Red Drop cures venereal diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury; but does cure the peculiarly valluable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless this remedy is used. This is what he claims for it; and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known that scientific men, in every department of medical knowledge, begin to appreciate it; for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. It is Sanaya, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-s New-York City, since 1834. Eight separate rooms and a private entrance. A ten cent bill will secure the Monitor of Health by return mail.

CAUTION TO LADIES, SINGLE AND MARRIED.—Every woman truly a lady, has an aversion to call in or upon a physician, in respect to complaints peculiar to her sex. Besides the shock to her delicacy in consulting persons, most of whom know nothing of her ailments, she incurs worse than useless expense in buying injurious pills, drops, potions, &c. No lady need call upon the numerous doctors with whom to uselessly spend her means, as "The Married Womans' Private Medical Companion," price $1, by A. M. "Albeit it is now become part of the common law, in regard to the social relations of life, that as often as every Bissextile year doth return, the ladyes have the sole privilege of making love unto the men, which they doe either by words or lookes as unto them seemeth proper; and no man will be entitled to the benefit of clerxy, who doth refuse to accept the offer of a lady, or who doth in anywise treat her proposal with neglect or contumely."

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Buckstone's comedy of "Leap Year" was produced here last evening with very decided success. The piece was capitally put on the stage. The acting was spirited and kept the audience in constant good humor. There are excellent social and domestic points in the dialogue, brief lessons of life, that were seized with great pleasure by the audience. The play was a success, and will be repeated until further notice.—Times.

OLYMPIC—LEAP YEAR.—A very long time has elapsed since a comedy has been better placed upon the stage than Buckstone's odd medley of "Leap Year" at this theatre. The piece could scarcely have been better fitted to the company if written for it. It is handsomely mounted, and we are not at all surprised that Mr. A. Oakey Hall's "Loyalina" has been crowded away for another week by a general desire for its continuance.—Atlas.

THE OLYMPIC.—There has been some capital playing at this theatre all the week in Buckstone's favorite comedy of "Leap Year." The play goes off briskly, and may safely be continued another week.—Leader.
Doors open at 7½; performances commence at 7¾.

NIBLO'S CONCERT SALOON.
WEDNESDAY EVENING, March 30,

Presentation of a Stand of Colors to the Twenty-sixth Regiment, U. S. C. T.

The Twenty-sixth Regiment United States Colored Troops, which was prevented by the storm from marching through this City on Saturday, left Riker's Island Yesterday, and, passing round the City, embarked in the Warrior at the foot of Warren-street. They were there met by a committee of the Union League Club, and an elegant stand of colors was presented to them, on behalf of the ladies of New-York, by JOHN JAY, Esq., who delivered the following address:

SOLDIERS OF THE TWENTY-SIXTH REGIMENT OF UNITED STATES COLORED TROOPS: On behalf of the ladies of New-York, who have prepared for you a stand of colors, I offer you a cordial greeting and a hearty God speed! They hoped in common with tens of thousands of their fellow-citizens to greet you in person yesterday. This, to their exceeding disappointment, the storm prevented. The arrangements of Government and the needs of the country require you to depart to-day. We, therefore, come on this beautiful Easter morning, consecrated to Faith and Hope, to give you, as you depart, our kind farewell. We greet you as Christians have for ages greeted each other on this anniversary of Christ's resurrection. We invoke for you the protection and favor of our risen Lord, triumphant over Sin and Death.

The President has called upon you to unite with your fellow-citizens in defending the integrity, the supremacy and the honor of our country. Trusting implicitly to the national faith, which the President, as Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the United States, has solemnly pledged in public proclamations, you have promptly responded to that call; and with, not doubt, hesitation or condition, you offer your lives for the defence of our common country and our common freedom. Organized by the National authority, you are henceforth a permanent part of the Army of the Republic. Already have thousands of your race, suddenly elevated from a condition of bondage, faced the rebel cannon and sharp-shooters at Vicksburgh, Port Hudson, Fort Wagner, Milliken's Bend, and other battle-fields of the South, with a heroism that has extorted the admiration and the gratitude of the American people. They have vindicated, by the highest ordeal, the right and capacity of their race—to share with us the blessings, which they have assisted to secure for the nation.

To-day you go forth from home, family and friends to emulate their bright example, and to do bravely, with God's help, your part in the great contest. Your going enables a thousand citizens of New-York liable to military service, to remain at home; and you leave behind you those who will watch with interest every onward step in your career, and who will remember you constantly in their prayers. If you return, as God grant many of you may, crowned with glory and victory, you will receive the warm welcome due to your patriotism and valor; and if you fall, as fall you may, your memories will be fondly cherished with those of the noble-hearted, who have died for their country.

Col. SILLIMAN, in the name of these ladies, and at the request of the Committee on Volunteering of the Union League Club, to whom the country is indebted for this second regiment organized by their efforts, I have the honor to present to you this stand of colors. Your heroic conduct on the hard fought field of Gettysburgh, and at Chancellorsville, where you saved the colors of the One Hundred and Twenty-fourth New-York, and brought out but a remnant of your command, assures us that we could not entrust them to worthier hands. Our republican system, which again you go forth to maintain, while it demands our highest loyalty to the Constitutional Government of the American people, and makes the preservation of their national sovereignty the first duty of the American citizen, teaches us also the lesson which we early learn and never forget, of pride, regard and affection, for our respective States. While, then, with your gallant officers and brave men you follow the flag of our country and defend it with your lives, this standard will remind you, whether in camp, on the march, or on the battle-field, of your connection with New-York, and of the masses of her citizens who bid you an affectionate farewell. Remember, Colonel, and let every officer and man in your regiment remember, that when the story of your prowess is told by the daily Press or on the page of history, this Metropolis will share your triumph, and the Empire State count you proudly among her sons. Already has New-York a record in this war of which her children may well be proud, even while they mourn her heroic dead—ELLSWORTH, CORCORAN, ZOOK, CHAPIN, SMITH, PREISSNER, SHERILL, COWLES, and all the unnumbered heroes who have fallen in the nation's cause. We offer to you, Colonel, this banner in its fresh silken beauty, the emblem of a constellation that is for the moment dim, and of a Union that seems somewhat shaken. Bring it to us again, tattered it may be, and stained with the life-blood of your brave soldiers: but bring it, the emblem of a nationality unbroken, of a sovereignty unimpaired, of a territory undiminished; the emblem of a Republic united and supreme, from which, though the stripes shall have vanished, no star shall be missing.

SIR: The soldiers of the Twenty-sixth Regiment thank you for your good words and kind wishes, and I can ask only that we may realize your highest hopes of us. What you have said of the men I believe is God's truth, and it will be the proudest day of my life when I can show their battle line to the traitor foe, and tell them: There are they that hunt for fugitive slaves, let them each find his man. For myself, I feel that what a man has been is nothing to what he yet may be, and by the latter I will strive to merit the honor so heaped upon me here to-day. Fair ladies, I cannot tell you how dear to us will be this banner, the gift of loyal women of the North. We love it, not chiefly for its rare and costly beauty, but for what is beyond all price, and more glorious than beauty. It is the emblem of our faith in all of this life which is worth living for. It is to us the symbol of redemption from bondage, differing from that which is eternal only in discharge by death, and as Christians love the cross, so we love our country's flag. We thank you for your generous gift, and, as soldiers, we have sworn to love, honor, and defend it with our lives.

After Col. SILLIMAN had concluded, Mr. VINCENT COLYER, the General Superintendent, came forward, and on behalf of the Colored Society, who were to have preceeded the regiment on the parade of Saturday—but for the storm—presented the soldiers each with a handsome rosette and white satin badge, on which was inscribed the words: "Unconditional Loyalty to God and our Country"—to the soldiers of the 26th Regiment—from their friends." Mr. COLYER held in his hands a beautiful banner, on which was inscribed the words, "UNCONDITIONAL LOYALTY," and in a few brief and eloquent words wished the regiment God speed. After the presentation the men received a hearty lunch.

The regiment goes to Annapolis, to join Gen. BURNSIDE's corps.

THE BARK SCANDINAVIAN ASHORE AT ROCKAWAY—FURTHER PARTICULARS.—

After the mate left the vessel, the Captain, finding that she was likely to become a total wreck, got out a boat, and, together with the remainder of the crew, (excepting one man who could not swim and refused to leave the vessel,) got into her; they had no sails, oars, &c., and were drifting about the bay, and all would have no doubt been drowned, as there was a very heavy sea on at the time, had not the steamtug Odd-Fellow, Capt. TOM HILL, who saw them and immediately put after them, and succeeded in rescuing them from their perilous position, at the risk of his own life and those of his crew. Capt. HILL deserves great credit, as but few men would run the risk that he did in rescuing the above men. They were brought to the City last evening. A steamboat was sent to the relief of the man left on board; but he had been taken off by a surf-boat from the shore. The Scandinavian has since sunk, her lower masts just appearing above water.

VISIT OF ALBANY MUNICIPAL AUTHORITIES.—

Mayor PERRY and the Common Council of Albany arrived in this City Saturday night, and are stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel. They came down on the splendid steamer St. John, by special invitation of the proprietors of the boat.

THE NEW NOVEL.—Godey's Lady's Book,

just out for April, thus speaks of the new novel, Cudjo's Cave: "Mr. TROWBRIDGE has already gained celebrity by his writings. This last work will give him a wider reputation. The scene is laid in Tennessee in the beginning of the war excitement, and gives terrible pictures of the stormy passions of men and the sad scenes enacted. * * * The descriptions of natural scenery are vivid, and often beautiful and noble characters, and lovely works of mercy are brought out on the dark canvas of civil war.

The price of Gold at 4 o'clock Saturday was 168¾ ₱ cent. The Customs demand on the day was $347,000; making $1,841,000 for the week, against which no important payments could be made out of the Treasury Office. The stock of Gold at the close of the week was $26,855,022. The arrangements announced from Washington by telegraph in the morning for relieving this continued accumulation will probably be completed early this week. Meantime the corner made upon the Gold market by certain Brokers who are hoarding two or three millions for still higher prices, if they can force them up, was held unusually close, and the loan of Gold for cash delivery refused in nearly all cases of application.

The rain storm interfered with an active business in the New Loan at the Treasury Office. The orders were $237,000, and $170,000 at one of the National Banks. These Banks have not yet received their official instructions in regard to to the Loan, and several large orders tendered were held in abeyance until next week.

No important change is reported in the Money Market. On the Stock Exchange speculation was again active, though at wide differences from Friday on Harlem—the fall being 20 ₱ cent., making 33 since Thursday—and on Illinois Central, which was the favorite of the day, and rose 7 ₱ cent.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Thursday afternoon, same hour. The lowest sales of Harlem were at 101 ₱ cent. The bidding subsequently rallied to 107 ₱ cent. There was no important movement in Erie or New-York Central. Among the Westerns, Illinois Central attracted most attention. Government Stocks quiet. At the Evening Exchange there was increased buoyancy in Illinois Central, and a very large business in Quicksilver.

The extent of the daily speculation in William-street in Gold and Railway and Mining Stocks, and the checks of the Brokers, certified and received at Bank, to represent this unprecedented movement, may be partially illustrated by the following figures, drawn from the official reports of only three Banks, prominent among those holding the accounts of the Brokers:
